Preface

Everyone praises an ideal student, everywhere - in the school, at home etc. To make our behaviour ideal, it is necessary to develop virtues in ourself. Even God likes virtuous children; because they are happy and also make others happy.

How children should make efforts to imbibe virtues such as self-reliance, concentration, obedience, pride for the Nation, abiding by Dharma etc. has been elucidated in a simple language in this Holy text. Examples of some child-seekers of Sanatan who eliminated their personality defects and imbibed virtues have been provided here. By reading these, others will also be inspired.

Only when the change is from within, does personality development take place in the true sense. Taking this aspect into consideration, some incidents from the lives of well-known people and national heroes have been mentioned. Each incident will immediately inculcate the importance of respective virtue on the mind of the child.

Our earnest prayer unto the Holy feet of Shrī Guru is that on studying this Holy text may the children enhance virtues and may their future life become blissful and successful. -
