

Importance of Ornaments

Preface

Wearing a nine-yard sārī (A Bharatiya dress for women), kumkum (Saffron) on forehead and adorned with the full set of ornaments, is the traditional identity of a Hindu woman. Ornaments are an invaluable inheritance of the Hindu culture. They have been preserved with pride for generations. With time, however, Hindu culture was influenced by the western culture. As a result, the cultural inheritance in the form of ornaments began to be ignored. Nowadays, in the name of fashion, women do not wear bangles, put on 'bindi' (Red, round sticker) instead of a mark of kumkum. Some consider it a sign of backwardness to use ornaments like broad bangles, nose ring, toe rings etc. At the same time, many have a mistaken materialistic notion that 'ornaments are a medium to show off their wealth'. The purpose of this Holy text series is to impress upon the mind the spiritual perspective, that an ornament is an object that facilitates the process of obtaining Divine grace.

Wearing ornaments enables us to receive Shakti (Divine Energy) and Chaitanya (Divine consciousness), reduces the negative energy in the body, protects from negative energy attacks, and the parts of the body where ornaments are worn are subjected to spiritual healing similar to Acupressure. These Holy texts elaborate on various such aspects along with the related science, thereby revealing the importance of ornaments. It also includes scientific information on comparison of ornaments made from different metals, ornaments for women, men and children, purification of the ornaments etc. To understand the subtle process (taking place after wearing ornaments) is beyond the comprehension of an average individual. Subtle-analysis and the subtle-pictures by Sanatan's seekers, who have subtle perception ability, is the special feature of these Holy texts. Subtle experiments conducted with a gold chain, a gold ring, sattvik (Sattva-predominant) and asuri (Demonic) ornaments by the seekers teach us to look at ornaments from the spiritual perspective.

It is not necessary to wear all the listed ornaments for availing spiritual benefits. Depending on individual's financial status, it is perfectly all right even if minimal ornaments are worn as advised by the scriptures; for, more than the 'which' and 'how many' of the ornaments, it is the bhav (Spiritual emotion) with which the ornaments are worn that matters. Those who cannot afford ornaments made of gold can wear gold-plated ornaments or silver ornaments, or at least one such ornament. When compared to the means like chanting, service unto the Absolute Truth etc., during the course of spiritual practice for God-realisation, gains from wearing ornaments are minimal. Yet, for those who are not doing any spiritual practice or for seekers in the preliminary stages, ornaments are a boon from the point of view of increasing sattvikta.

We pray unto the Holy feet of Shri Guru that, upon reading these Holy texts, may everyone develop a spiritual perspective of looking at ornaments and realise the greatness of Hindu Dharma which has given this invaluable treasure ! - Compilers

Index

(An asterisk [*] sign has been placed alongside important points)

1. The origin of the word alankar (Ornaments) and its meaning	23
2. Synonyms of the word alankar	24
3. Creation of ornaments	24
4. Divine virtues are ornaments in the subtle	24
* Every Divine virtue in a jiva is a subtle ornament provided by God	24
* Due to the subtle ornaments, there is constant supply of Shakti to the chakras in the body.'	25
* Subtle ornaments as per the virtues and personality defects of a jiva	25
* Personality defects and the ornaments of demoniacal energies are interrelated	25
5. Ornament with a character of detachment	26

6. Ornament of the universe	28
* Meditative state of Deity Shiva, which stabilises the universe, is an ornament of Deity Shiva !	28
* Spiritual practice of Deity Shiva is a supreme ornament that forms a perfect means connecting saguṇ & nirguṇ aspect of this universe !	28
7. Deities, human beings and ornaments	29
* Characteristic features of the ornaments worn by Deity Brahma, Shri Vishṇu and Deity Mahesh (Shiva)	29
* Ornaments worn by human beings and Deities	30
* Difference between the ornaments of human beings and those of Deities	31
* Some ornaments, the Principle active within them and associated Deities	34
* Ornaments of Deities and their benefit to human beings	34
* Ornaments of Deities are a manifestation of the tārak-mārak Shakti of the Deity	34
* Ornaments of a Deity attract the Deity's Principle	35
8. Era dependent changes in the ornaments	36
* Era dependent change in the perspective of women wearing ornaments	37
* Ornaments unnecessary in the ancient times	37
* Necessity of ornaments in Kaliyug	37
* Era dependent occurrence of changes in proportion of wearing Divine & demoniacal ornaments	37
* Era wise proportion of Divine & demoniacal ornaments	38
9. Characteristic features of ornaments
* An ornament is a form of God within the Maya, which functions according to the Prakruti of the jiva and thereby teaches it to go towards perfection	39
* 'Wearing ornaments' is a gross medium to become one with the Deity	40
10. Reasons for wearing of ornaments and its importance	40

* In Hindu Dharma, 'adorning ornaments' is a principal āchār	40
* Wearing ornaments helps in imbibing Divine waves	42
* Receiving Chaitanya of Deities through the medium of ornaments	43
* Unknowingly getting benefit of Acupressure treatment while wearing ornaments	49
* Purification and awakening of the chakrās due to wearing ornaments	50
* Wearing ornaments to avoid distress due to planets	50
* Protection from negative energies due to ornaments	51
11. Various metals used in making ornaments and gems embedded in them	62
* Importance of using metals for making ornaments	62
* Comparison of ornaments made from gold, silver, copper, aluminium and other metals	66
* Effect on the physical body, of different gems embedded in ornaments	69
* Association between metals or gems used in ornaments and bhāv	69